A45. The name of the product reveals its major feature: the 45° angle. I was interested in revising the shape of the typical bathroom washbasin, reducing the surfaces, which form the volume. Through inclination of the planes/sides, it is possible to simplify the shape and augment the containment capacity. A movable shelf is added in order to provide additional space for the bathroom accessories. It also covers the water drain hole and could be available in different materials offered by Boffi. The idea of 'hiding' the drainage is a tribute to the continuous quest for formal and conceptual simplicity which defines the identity of the company.
